MODES FOR TOP COAT AND SUIT

The Late Skirts Show Trimming at the Lower Edge

PICOT EDGED RIBBONS

New York, March 27.—The proper wrap and the proper suit for Spring are the first questions which crop into the woman's mind with the beginning of the balmy weather. The winter coat has been worn until one is tired of it, and besides on the first warm day it feels so heavy to drag about the neck, and we need something lighter to take its place.

For general wear with the dress comes the coat in various styles. The model illustrated shows a new and very practical style in coats. In the back it is very full and falls in ripples while in the front it has less fullness. A wide gauntlet cuff is used on the sleeves, and the high collar which flares up as high as the chin is unusually new and smart.
The model is developed in blue serge.
Other fabrics which are being used for such a coat are black and white checked coating, covert cloth, field cloth, gabardine, and for the fancy coat faille silk is used.

Speaking of faille silk reminds me of an unusual model which was shown in one of the shops of oyster white faille. It was very full, back and front and the entire thing was edged with a wide band of black velvet.

Of no less importance is the suit.
The materials used are covert, serge, gabardine, voile gabardine which is a light weight fabric of the gabardine type, khaki, or field cloth, grosgrain cloth, covert cord, tweed, or homespun.

The suits this season show a return to the strictly tailored type. Of course, the military style is highly popular. This is so named more because of the placing of corded trimming and buttons than in the general cut, and with pockets and belts in the places accorded them by the makers of British and French uniforms.

It is really strange how thoroughly mixed are these military tendencies.
It takes the fair-minded woman to her utmost to be thoroughly neutral in her dress. It can be done, however.

for a Ubian hat may be worn with a dress cut on strictly English field uniform lines.
The jackets vary in length, some are moderately long in the back and cut short in the front from the underarm seam. Others are cut short all the way around. The bolero with or without sleeves is worn especially in the silk suits.

A Full Separate Coat With New Style Collar.

In the second illustration is a suit with an Eton jacket with V-neck and buttons down the front. With this is worn a full skirt which is attached several times around the lower edge.
This is the type of suit that would make an excellent traveling suit for the woman who is going to the Pan-American or upon any other journey.
The separate waists, which, of course, are in great demand with the popularity of the suit, are shown in a large variety this year. The plain styles trimmed only with buttons and fastening down the front are considered the most correct, but they are slowly becoming a little more elaborate with a few tucks and a little shirring. These are made of voile, chiffon and crepe de chine while the ones shown for summer are developed in handkerchief linen, voile, Swiss and organdy. Very plain covered buttons shaped like quinine capsules down the front. Most of the waists are made with long, close sleeves and adjustable collars; that is, collars which are closed right around the neck or may be left open as desired.

The Eton Jacket with Full Skirt Developed in Khaki.

Dresses are being finished around the bottom of the skirts in many various ways. A dress of net has a deep hem of white taffeta figured in pink, which was cut in deep scallops at the top edge. A close-fitting bodice of the silk was covered with a flowing bolero of net which was bound around the edges with the figured silk cut on the bias.

Other skirts of net or chiffon have hems eighteen inches deep of taffeta or satin and many organdy dresses shown have deep hems of colored silk. Nets also have deep hems of colored organdy.

The scalloped lower edges are particularly pretty and can be used with good effect on the bottom of sheer summer dresses. If you are beginning to think of making these. Points are also used as well as squares. Waer very sheer material is used, a narrow ruffle of the same material may be used to run around the edges. In others, on a little heavier fabric a simple binding may be used to finish the edges.

Still another way to finish the bottom of the skirt is to cord it several times on a small cord. The wide cord has been used, but several rows of finer cording is much newer.

Fringed and picot-edged box-pleadings are also used a great deal and are very effective around the bottom of net and tulle and some times taffeta dresses. The double and boxpleated ruffles are about seven inches wide and sewed on the dress through the middle of the ruffle. The upper edge is tucked at intervals into the skirt, but between it falls carelessly and gives the whole dress a very fluffy and light appearance.

Small flowers and ribbon or tulle are some times used together in forming a very attractive finish around the bottom of a frock for evening wear.

The ribbons for the season are exquisite and the old-fashioned picot-ed ribbon seems particularly popular in narrow and white widths as well as grosgrain ribbon.

Keep Your Auto Engine Clear of Carbon

Carbon causes lost power, leaky valves, noise, knocks, overheating, heavy repair bills and the use of 50 per cent too much gasoline.
100 per cent automobile efficiency necessitates the use of OXY-MIDE (De Farbeck Process) is the perfect carbon solvent—An auto essential. Scraps cylinders and grinding valves is a garage job, expensive and slow. The modern method of carbon elimination is OXYMIDE. (De Farbeck Process)—Swift, sure, safe, economical.
Reduces 75 per cent the cost of cleaning carbon out of your car.

OXYMIDE—(De Farbeck Process) is guaranteed to contain no material harmful to anything but carbon. It dissolves carbon. Reactions are simple and OXYMIDE may be applied by an auto mechanic or a layman. It is OXYMIDE, replace plugs, wait ten minutes while OXYMIDE vaporizes and disintegrates the asphaltic mass that causes carbon, then start engine, and carbon is expelled, as a soot vapor, through exhaust. Treat other cylinders similarly, and your engine is perfectly clean. Possible only with OXYMIDE. (De Farbeck process).

Satisfaction guaranteed or money refunded. At your suppli-man's or save profits and send $1.00 for special introductory can of OXYMIDE—the wonder worker. Enough to clean car twice, to your door by parcel post.
